LEADERSHIP INSTITUTE

Strengthening Well-Being in a Diverse Society

"What I got from the training was very valuable. I must say, this was the first training I went to in a long time that met all my expectations. Well worth the money and time. That is huge for me!"

–Leadership Institute Participant

ABOUT THE INSTITUTE

Join with a growing community of outdoor classroom users and advocates to explore effective ways of fostering well-being in children and adults in diverse settings and circumstances. Gain practical, inspiring information and skills you can utilize immediately; enjoy hands-on sessions in nature every day and delightful social times in the evenings. Treat yourself to rest, relaxation, and a warm, joyful, thoughtfully balanced program that will equip you with new tools for your professional journey.

Choose from one of these interest groups:

- Administrators/teachers in elementary, preschool or infant toddler programs
- College/university instructors
- Educational consultants/trainers
- Representatives from educational professional associations, conservation organizations or organizations in public natural settings
- Home child care providers
